

Leading for Equity: Bringing an Equity Focus to CTE Leaders

Nov. 28, 1:00-5:00 p.m.

How does Leading for Equity differ from the work of Leading for Learning? Join us as we unpack the critical ways in which a focus on equity shifts the work of educational leaders, particularly in the area of Career and Technical Education. Through a focus on policies and procedures, instructional supervision, and community building, formal and informal leaders alike can begin institutionalizing equity into the system, thus more effectively supporting institutional and individual efforts to increase student access and educational equity through Career and Technical Education pathways. Participants will leave with tools to begin infusing equity into their systems and processes in meaningful and purposeful ways.

This Pre-Conference workshop is being offered as a partnership among CTEEC (Career and Technical Education Equity Council), NAPE (National Alliance for Partnerships in Equity), and ACTE (Association of Career and Technical Education).

Cost: $175
