

Dear

Rubber Division, ACS invites you to participate as a speaker in the Technical Meeting at the upcoming 2023 International Elastomer Conference. The conference will be held in Cleveland, OH, USA from October 16-19, 2023. We look forward to your participation as a speaker. The complete conference schedule can be found at https://www.rubberiec.org/2023/component_technical_meeting.cfm.

Rubber Division, ACS is a non-profit technical society based in Akron, Ohio supporting education and the exchange of scientific knowledge in the rubber and elastomer industries. The International Elastomer Conference is our annual gathering of scientists and business leaders in the rubber industry. The conference features over 100 technical presentations, educational opportunities, and a trade exposition.

All expenses in the USA, including conference registration, travel and lodging will be the responsibility of the attendee. We understand that your visit to the United States is for a limited time for the purpose of attending the International Elastomer Conference. Additional information about the meeting is available on the IEC web site (<http://www.rubberiec.org>).

We hope to see you in Cleveland.

Sincerely,
